

COMP3500 – Frequently Asked Questions

Project 1 - Installing CentOS

1. What should we include in our project report? Should it be a description of the processes to complete each task, or should it simply be a copy of the commands and response from the terminal?

Answer: There is no formal format of the report. You can either use the pipe or the script command of Linux to show the process of completing all the specified tasks.

Instructions on how to use the script command can be found here:

If you encounter any problem and solve it, please also document the problem and its solution.

2. I noticed that there's a place to submit Project 1 on Canvas on my page - but not on the group page. Does each group member need to do their own submission?

Answer: Only one member of your group needs to submit the project report. After we grade your report, both members will receive the same score.
